What is your goal?

Pew Institute identified a gap in media ecosystem – community and civic curation/information is a role libraries can fill.

Technology Training - Provide hardware/software and training for flyer design

Meet internal promotional needs of library
What are the options?

Basic – Plugging flash drive into TV

Medium – Using signage player and creating your own campaign for one device

Advanced – HTML feed Feed can be shared with multiple devices and websites. Allows oversight/permission by corporate partners
What do you need?

- TV - at least 1080p – hertz doesn’t matter. Resolution counts. 50” around $350. Smart TV isn’t necessary. If you want to display full motion video, may need better than 1080p. Buy size that fits in your space – Typically 40” – 55”. Horizontal seems to work well.

- Computer with full Windows OS (to play videos) or HDMI stick (Full android OS Approximately $165 – Can purchase from digitalsignage.com. Can’t play video)

- Network connection/Can use wifi

- Media player app/signage player app – digitalsignage.com (Free)

- Electricity

The SignagePlayer is the work horse of our Digital Signage solution; it just keep going and going and ...
It is a robust presentation player that was designed from the ground up to be efficient and secure. Built using an open source SDK, it supports the most widely used file formats including HD video, audio, animation and images.
The SignagePlayer can run pretty much anywhere, on Windows, Linux, Mac, iOS, Android as well as inside web browsers. The SignagePlayer can operate for months without a single reboot, yes it is that efficient.
Connect it to our mediaCLOUD or to your own private mediaSERVER, it's up to you. It is controlled by the SignageStudio using real time socket connection. If you have a firewall installed on your network, the SignagePlayer still will find a way to connect by falling back onto HTTP polling. You don't need any static IPs or any special configuration. The SignagePlayer is pure genius.

- runs on most operating systems and web browsers
- embed player onto a web page or web address to share with others
- local caching engine for off-line playback
- live preview
